Zarpoo's beauty-focused products are produced for the first time in the country from 24-carat Swiss gold particles with dimensions of less than 150 nanometers. The research and development stages of these products have been carried out at the Health Technology Research Institute of Amir Kabir University of Technology and the Fast Knowledge-Based Accelerator. It is worth noting that similar products had previously entered the market in advanced American and European countries, but fortunately, now researchers at the Health Technology Research Institute were able to give these valuable products to beauty-loving Iranians by building a gold nanoparticle production machine. All Zarpoo products do not use any substances harmful to the skin, such as parabens.

You will definitely be our best encourager and helper on the way to achieving this great goal.
